Dr. Beall and His Carriage... Women in Street Cars...A Novelty in Building Materials... A Trio of Barnacles... Clerks and Drinking Places.

People were reminded this morning that Dr. Beall, who has hanging over him a charge of body-snatching, is still at large by seeing him on the Avenue in a situation that attracted the attention of everybody. The doctor was well dressed. He were a neat-fitting Prince Albert coat, dark trousers, rolled up at the bottom, and, despite the drizzling rain, a shiny beaver hat. The spectacle of so faultiessly attired a man dragging a carriage down the Avenue in broad daylight was one that made people stare. Yet this is just what Dr. Beall was doing. The carriage was the same one in which he is said to have taken the bodies from the cemetery. He stood between the shafts and hauled it slowly down the Avenue amid the jeers and plaudits of a gang of small boys. After a time he seemed to tire of this, and calling a colored man he placed him in between the shafts in his stead.

"Did you ever notice that a woman never knows the right side of the street to get on a car?" asked the conductor of a Fourteenth-street vehicle of a CRITIC man as a fat woman waved her arms wildly in her efforts to have it stopped in the middle of a street crossing. 'Another thing, too, is the inconsiderateness of women. They will keep a car standing nearly a minute sometimes to finish up a piece of gossip with some friend, or by their deliberate movements in getting on or off. They don't seem to know that we have to make time. People generally, in fact, don't appear to understand that street cars have a regular time schedule, just as steam railroads have. This car, for instance, is obliged to make the trip from the Boundary to the Capitol in thirty four minutes, and if we happen to be late getting in we are laid off for several days. I don't think that if this was generally understood people would delay us as much as they do, or would kick at us trying to hurry them up oc-

A novelty in building material can be witnessed in a large edifice now being constructed on Tenth street, between D and E. A continuous bay-window, which lights all the upper stories, is being covered with copper instead of the wood or sheet-iron generally used for that purpose. The builders will probably make the mistake of painting this, but the effect of the ruddy copper as it now appears is a good one and ought not to be destroyed. Tenth street, by the way, is fast becoming a business thoroughfare. A few years ago that portion of Tenth street between D and F was entirely occupied by old-fashioned dwellings, but now it has over a score of business places and the old domiciles are fast being torn down and replaced by modern structures.

A trio of barnacles were found by the camera operator surrounding a lamp-post near the corner of Fourteenth street and the Avenue the other evening. "Say, Uncle Harry, do you remember the time, way back in 1861, when the flour-sack was started on its journey from Austin, Nevada, on its trip around the country for the benefit of the sanitary fund?" "Perhaps I don't," was the reply. "Wasn't I the man who delivered the speech that stirred the Austin people up the night the flour sack was sent off, and did I not take it to Virginia City?" this the conversation turned to California and the days of the Broderick-Terry duel, which occurred away back in 1853. The three men talking were Evans, now of Leadville; Judge Adair Wilson of Del Norte, Col and Hon. H. C. Worthington. To use an old expression, they all three remem-ber when Pike's Peak was a hole in the ground, and have been familiar with that section of the continent west of the Missouri River since 1849. Judge Wilson and Harry Worthington both take pride in having figured in the flour-sack journey, which netted the santtary fund $278,000 in gold worth $2.78 on the dollar in greenbacks. The latter was present at the breakfast table in the International Hotel in San Francisco on the morning that the challenge was issued which terminated in the virtual assassination of Broderick and perpetuated a feud that only terminated with the death of Terry. are that you would not strike any street corner in Washington again in ten years and find another such combina-tion as this.

"They may talk all they please about the Department clerks taking no stock in the edict that went out a month or more ago to the effect that they must not frequent drinking places, but some of the familiar faces have been mighty scarce about here since." This was the utterance of a bartender at one of the most popular places in Washington last evening. 'Many of these fellows,' continued the bar tender,' were accustomed to coming in here every morning on their way to work and get cocktail or a wine and seltzer, and in the evening they would drop in for a half hour or so for a social drink and chat. Now they never see us as they pass by, but, just the same, they resort to quieter and more unfrequented places, where they think no one will observe

'We expect to see mule teams and plows when we go to the country, but it is a rare thing to witness in the centre of a large city like Washington." Thus spoke one of a group of men yesterday while looking at the work upon the excavation for the new building to be crected on Teuth street for Messrs. Woodward & Lothrop. The "gee-who ha" of the colored drivers of the plow was heard the same as if in a corn-field, and people looked at the patiently-working mules and the deep furrows made by the plow as a curiosity. In no large city outside of Washington are mules used for the purpose of expediting the digging out of cellars for the laying of building foundations. Pience to the stranger the thing is a

"A balloon ascension is thrilling and perllous. There is nothing more perilous, and an aeronaut always takes his life into his own hands," said a man who had made a balloon ascension. Continuing, the ex-aeronaut said: What do you suppose a man's sensations are when he finds himself glidling away from terms firms into Infinite space, his only foothold that of the wicker basket attached to the alr-ship? Think of the peril a man is in the likelihood of the balloon collapsing and falling into a lake or river, or sud denly descending into some obscure ditch. Look at Professor Donaldson, who was the aeronaut in Barnum's | son's advertisement in this paper.

'Greatest Show on Earth. Those balloon ascensions by Professor Donald-son and the newspaper men were one of Barnum's greatest advertising cards. Some years ago Professor Donaldson made an ascension in Chicago with Reporter Grimwood of the Times. Neither of them has since been seen or heard It was thought they were lost in

REVISION MUCH NEEDED.

Great Confusion in the Nomenclature of Our Streets, Captain Rossell has made a report on the House bill "to change the name of Caroline street southwest to Hancock Place," which shows the propriety of adopting some rule to govern the nomenclature of the minor streets of this city. These names have been so badly mixed that Congress is called upon to undo one snarl in the tangle of street pames.

In the case now before Congress Captain Rossell reports that the name of Caroline street cannot be changed to Hancock Place because there are already Hancock Circle and Hancock avenue on the city plats. The promise of the future is that the reduplication of similar names of small streets will go on increasing unless some plan as to names insisted upon. Many of the sub-streets in sisted upon. Many of the sub-streets in this city are named for personal ends and do not coincide with the grand plan laid out for the naming of the more important thoroughfares.

The doubling and trebling and even quadrupling of the names of streets has been going on here for some years and is still increasing. This year's directory contains the names of year's directory contains the names of 912 sub-streets, alleys and places other than the regular streets of the city. Over 200 of these names are duplicates. There are two Warren streets, two Washington streets and seven streets, alleys or places named after Lincoln, four after Washington, five after Grant, and few names are used at all that are not applied to more than one locality.

TEMPTING THE THIEVES,

Merchants Should Not Leave Valuable

Goods in Windows at Night. The police force do not have much sympathy for the merchants of Washngton who lose goods that they dis play in their show windows after closing hours. The goods they say that were displayed in the window of Frank Hoffa's jewelry store were only a temptation for sometone who was hard up to throw a brick through the glass. All the merchants have been notified that they take more or less risk in leaving valuable goods in their windows after night, but they still persist in doing so, and then throw the blame on the police force if they happen to have a plate-glass cracked and some goods

What Mr. Clarke Thinks Important, S. C. Clarke, 501 Stanton Place, has address the following letter to the District Commissioners: "If you propose to open up to public consideration pending measures affecting the people and the finances of the District, I have the honor to request that the more im portant projects have the preference, uch as the extention of Vermont avenu and Sixteenth street northwest, beyond Boundary street, and the removal of the stand pipe and the substitution of the Holly system west of Thirteentl street. What say you gentlemen?"

In Favor of the School-Ship, The District Commissioners yesterday afternoon expressed themselves to a committee of the School Board as strongly in favor of the proposition to secure a school-ship for Washington. The committee consists of Superin-tendent of Schools Powell, Postmaster Ross, Rev. Mr. Grimke and Dr. Witmer. They will investigate all the de-tails of the enterprise and ascertain how large an appropriation may be needed, after which they will have another con-

The Foes of Ballot Reform.

From the St. Louis Post-Disputch. The Republican Legislature of New York has again passed a ballot reform bill in the hope that Governor Hill will again veto it. But in Pennsylvania, where the Republicans have both the Legislator and the Governor, the party is as solid against ballot reform as the same party is in Ohio, West Virginia and several other States. The credit of rejecting ballot reform bills has been thus far reserved to Republican Legislatures alone.

Wood, the alleged ballot-box forger, to exhibit himself on the stage in conjunction with life size wax figures of the persons engaged in size wax regures of the persons engaged in the investigation of the forgery at Wash-ington. The representation includes Governor Campbell, ex-Governor For-aker, ex-Mayor Amor Smith, General Grosvenor, Murat Halstead, Charles Kurtz, Senator Sherman, Congressman Butterworth and others. Wood will deliver a lecture at each performance relating to the investigation.

The Salmon of Alaska.

Dr. Tarleton H. Bean lectured last night at the National Museum on "The Salmon of Alaska." He said that dur-ing the season of 1889, 4,000 men had been employed in the canneries, $4,000, 000 of capital had been invested in the industry and 8,500,000 salmon had been canned. The business was increasing every year, and it was necessary that laws should be enacted which would protect the industries.

CONSUMPTION,

IN its first stages, can be successfully checked by the prompt use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Even in the later periods of that disease, the cough is wonderfully relieved by this medicine. "I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral with the best effect in my practice. This wonderful preparation once saved my life. I had a constant cough, night sweats, was greatly adjusted to sweats, was greatly reduced in flesh, and given up by my physician. One bottle and a half of the Pectoral cured me."—A. J. Eidson, M. D., Middleton, "Several years ago I was severely ill.

"Several years ago I was severely ill.
The doctors said I was in consumption, and that they could do nothing for me, but advised me, as a last resort, to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking this medicine two or three months I was cured, and my health remains good to the present day."—James Birchard, Darien, Conn. Darien, Conn.

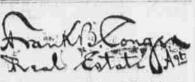

"Several years ago, on a passage bone from California, by water, I contracted so severe a cold that for some days I was confined to my state-room, and a physician on board considered my life in danger. Happening to have a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, I used it freely, and my lungs were soon restored to a healthy condition. Since then I have invariably recommended this preparation."—J. B. RULES FOR SLEEPING,

Never Let Anybody Wake You, Nor Retire on Thrilling Literature, How many hours' sleep do you require? As many as you can get, answers the St. James Gazette. That is the general answer to such a question. No rule can be laid down. Jeremy Taylor thrived on three hours, and so does Cardinal Newman. Many centenarians are contented with five hours, but some of them require eight or nine. Unless you are afflicted with a pro-nounced insomnia—a thing widely different from occasional and even tro some wakefulness-you are foolish to employ any kind of narcotic drug. But there are two rules of sleeping which everybody may adopt without hesitation. (1) Never let yourself be wakened by anybody else, but wait until you have slept out your sleep. (2) Get up as soon as you are awake.

If you follow these two rules the hours of sleep will very soon regulate themselves. If you read yourself to sleep, you should read a heavy book. not a light one-a book that taxes and tires your brain, not one that stires and stimulates it. A dull book is good, a stupid one is better. Some persons recommend a cup of beef tea—just to amuse the digestion. A country gentleman declared that whenever he was afraid of a sleepless night he used to invite the vicar of his parish to smoke a pipe with him. The result was a deep and refreshing slumber.
